

TONY C. DILL, COL (USA Retired)
SENIOR MANAGING CONSULTANT

tcdill@engsys.com

Tony Dill leads ESi's Security and Defense Services Practice Group. He specializes in high-risk training management, complex problem-solving, and has participated in accident investigations within various Airborne and Special Operations units involving parachutes, firearms, transportation, and explosives. During his 31 years of service to the nation, he held numerous roles within the United States military, including Chief of Staff for the John F. Kennedy Special Warfare Center and School, State Inspector General (IG) for the Georgia Department of Defense, and Commander of the prestigious U.S. Army Parachute Team, The Golden Knights.

A retired Green Beret, Mr. Dill's broad experience includes security assessments, implementation of protection protocols, and facilities/personnel management for large-scale initiatives designed to improve operations and security at work sites, oil refineries, and small military cities abroad. Trained as both a Safety Officer and Inspector General, Mr. Dill is skilled at navigating complex regulatory and compliance requirements and has conducted risk assessments and audits of policies and procedures. He has also managed complex supply chain logistics, including fuel farm and pipeline operations, water purification and testing, equipment maintenance, rail movement, and aerial delivery of equipment and personnel. In addition, Mr. Dill has led multiple mission-critical response efforts, including natural disasters, combat search and rescue operations, hostage rescue planning, personal security detachments, site security, and convoy operations.

Mr. Dill also has significant hands-on experience in aviation management and operations. As Battalion Commander, he was responsible for a flight detachment of four medium transport aircraft, and provided direct oversight of aircraft maintenance, budgets, flight operations, parachute operations, training, and risk assessments in accordance with Department of Defense regulations and FAA Parts 119 and 135.

For three years, Mr. Dill worked in the defense industry, consulting with clients on ballistic and blast safety, product development, testing, and evaluation, and ISO-9000 compliance. He also provided training on firearms and other military equipment and was responsible for compliance and export licensing in accordance with the U.S. Department of State's International Traffic in Arms Regulations (ITAR).

With over 34 years of experience in firearms, Mr. Dill is well-versed in virtually every area of firearm safety and performance, including tactical training, maintenance, readiness, evaluation, and risk assessment. His expertise includes handguns, tactical shotguns, submachine guns, military rifles, mortars, and anti-armor rockets. He has also been cross trained in U.S., NATO, and Soviet small arms. Mr. Dill has conducted research, development, and testing for weapon rigging procedures utilized in freefall parachute infiltration.
